

This is what I believe: That I am I. That my soul is a dark forest. That my known self will never be more than a little clearing in the forest. That gods, strange gods, come forth from the forest into the clearing of my known self, and then go back. That I must have the courage to let them come and go. That I will never let mankind put anything over me, but that I will try always to recognize and submit to the gods in me and the gods in other men and women. There is my creed. - D.H. Lawrence	For God to me, it seems Is a verb Not a noun, Proper or improper; Is the articulation Not the art ... Is loving, Not the abstraction of love ... Yes, God is a verb, The most active, connoting the vast harmonic Reordering of the universe From the unleashed chaos of energy. - Buckminster Fuller
In the long run nothing can withstand reason and experience, and the contradiction which religion offers to both is all too palpable. - Sigmund Freud	We have seen the highest circle of spiraling powers. We have named this circle God. We might have given it any name we wished: Abyss, Absolute Darkness, Absolute Light, Matter, Spirit, Ultimate Hope, Ultimate Despair, Silence. But never forget, it is we who give it a name. - Nikos Kazantzakis
The Tao that can be told is not the eternal Tao; The name that can be named is not the eternal name. The Nameless is the origin of Heaven and Earth; The Named is the mother of all things. - Lao Tzu	I was at this time living ... in a whirl of contradictions. I maintained that God did not exist. I was also very angry with God for not existing. - C.S. Lewis

Natural Theology Is there such a thing as God? I saw sunrise at Jackson Hole. I fell in love many years ago. I caught a tear in my father's eye. I watched a lily bloom. I saved a boy from drugs and death. I touched the hand of Martin Luther King, Jr. I feel the warmth of children. I laugh almost every day. I hold the hem of hope. The only God I can possibly know is the God of life—and life is endless. - David O. Rankin	There is a reality outside the world, that is to say, outside space and time, outside man's mental universe, outside any sphere whatsoever that is accessible to human faculties. Corresponding to this reality, at the centre of the human heart, is the longing for an absolute good, a longing which is always there and is never appeased by any object in this world. - Simone Weil
Sometimes it rains on the just. I believe that. Sometimes it rains on the unjust. I believe that, too. But I also believe that sometimes it just rains. Neither God or Justice or belief has anything to do with it. - Anonymous	Absolute faith is placed in a man's inner being. For whatever authority there is in Zen, all comes from within." - D.T. Suzuki
God gave us an opportunity through science to understand the natural world, but there will never be a scientific proof of God's existence. - Francis Collins	God is like a mirror. The mirror never changes, but everybody who looks at it sees something different. - Rabbi Harold Kushner
